Hamburg, November 8.

A Printed Paper is seen here in Form of a Letter, wherein is set forth, that it is an Injury to accuse the King of Sweden, as if he were not willing to contribute his Part to a Treaty of Peace; and 'tis alledged, among other Things, that it is not in Repugnance to Peace, that his Swedish Majesty has refused to send his Ministers to Brunswick, but because they would oblige him, by Force, to accept that Place for the Congress; and that they had been deficient in many Points of the Ceremonial: That he had given Account of his Conduct thereupon, by a Letter addressed to the Emperor, and by Memorials presented to the Dyet at Ratisbon: That upon what had been declared to his Swedish Majesty, that the Emperor would not appear in the Congress of Brunswick, but in quality of Emperor, his Swedish Majesty had demanded to be treated as a Member of the Empire, and that all Things should pass in the Congress according to the fundamental Laws of that illustrious Body: That his Swedish Majesty is very much disposed to Peace, and is ready to pass over Difficulties that are not prejudicial to his Dignity: That his Mediators and Ministers are already named, and they have proposed four several Cities to the Choice of his Enemies; consenting also, that if they cannot agree to them, they shall name others; or if they could not agree upon the Choice of a Town, it should be refer'd to the Mediators. And lastly, that his Swedish Majesty has declared, that he was ready to enter into a Negotiation for a general Peace; or into separate Negotiations, with respect to the particular Differences he may have with some Members of the Empire, &c.

The private Remarks made hereupon are, That what has been hitherto done at Brunswick, has been without solid Foundation; but that the reciprocal Exhaust of Treasure, has at last brought on a Time of Decision; and upon that Subject they produce the Example of the Emperor and the late King of France, whom a like Expence determined to agree upon a Treaty of Peace, without any Mediation, and in less Time than used to be spent in the Regulation of Preliminaries; the same Generals who made the War having treated and concluded the Peace. This Model is proposed as the most proper for speedily bringing about a Peace, which all the Powers of the North seem to desire with so much Ardour.

Hamburg, Nov. 10. All the Russian Troops remain still in the Dutchy of Mecklenburg, waiting the Czar's Orders for their Departure. The Russian Envoy Extraordinary, the Baron de Schlewitz, declares very much against forming an Army to drive them out, assuring his Britannick Majesty that they shall very suddenly evacuate the Empire, except a small Number, who tarrying in the Mecklenburgische, shall pay for all they want in ready Money. The King and Queen of Denmark went the 4th to Fredericksburg, and his Majesty designs to go from thence to Goor.

Paris, Oct. 30. Besides the Curates of Beauvais who retracted the Publication they had made of the Constitution, M. Tristan, Canon of the Cathedral and Promoter of the Diocese, has done the same. We see here the Copy of an Act which he addressed to his Chapter the 16th of this Month. Wherein he testifies, that he had consented to the Registering of the Constitution Unigenitus, in a Perswasion that that Registry did not imply an Acceptation of it, which was also the Opinion of many Gentlemen of the Chapter: But seeing that the World have judged it as such; he thinks himself obliged, for repairing the Fault he acknowledges he has committed, to declare that it would have been more proper not to have register'd it, and that he never did, nor now does, look upon the said Constitution, nor the Pieces annex'd to it, as a Rule of Faith, Morality, and Discipline, it not being conformable to the Tradition of their Church. The same Day he wrote a Letter to the Bishop of Beauvais, who is at Paris, to inform him of that Declaration which his Conscience obliged him to make, after many internal Conflicts; and repeated the same things which he had set forth in his Act. The Bishop received that Letter very ill, as he had done that of the Curates, and sent them immediately Answers in a very threatening Style. We are assur'd that the Archbishops of Aix, Rheims and Roan, and the Bishops of Marseilles and Toulon are sent for by the Regent, to be present at the Assembly the Bishops are to hold the 20th of next Month. The Bishops Acceptants at the Cardinal de Rohan's, and the Non-Acceptants at the Cardinal de Noailles; and some will be chosen on both Sides to carry the Opinions to one another. They talk that a Writing will be made in three Columns, in one whereof will be set down the pretended bad Sense of the 101 condemn'd Propositions; in the other the Catholick Sense; and in the middle the Condemned Propositions themselves. 'Tis said the Bishops of Auxerre, Agen, Montauban and Condom, have joined with the Opposing Bishops. They write from Aix in Provence, that on Sunday the 4th of October, the Sieur le Begue, Curate of the Parish of St. Louis at Toulon, at his Homily after the Parochial Mass, retracted the Publication he had made in the Year 1714. of the Bull Unigenitus, by the Command of his Bishop. His Retraction is Printed, wherein he asks Pardon of God for having had the Weakness to make that Publication, declares, that he finds himself obliged in Honour and Conscience, to disavow, revoke, and retract it, as he hereby does, fearing that it might, contrary to his Intention, be taken for an Acceptation of the Bull; and he adds, that he looks upon it as contrary to the Tradition of the Church of Toulon. The Bishop, at the Request of the Promoter, made on the 5th and 6th of the Month, an Information against this Curate; and the Vicegerent, upon that Information, has decreed against him a personal Citation, and an Interdict of his Functions; but the Curate has appealed from it to the Parliament of Provence, and this Affair, which makes a great Noise in the Country, will be solemnly pleaded before that Court.

Edinburgh, Oct. 31. Yesterday being the Anniversary of the Birth of his Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, Guardian of this Kingdom during His Majesty's Absence, the Flag of our Castle was displayed about six in the Morning, under the Discharge of seven great Guns. The Right Honourable the Lord Provost, Magistrates and City Council ordered the Trained Bands to be in Arms. Accordingly about 11 a Clock they marched in good Order to the New Grey-Friars, near this City, and betwixt two and three in the Afternoon, Colonel Edgerton's Regiment of Foot marched from His Majesty's Palace of Holy-Rood-House, through this City to the Castle-Hill, and made a very handsome Appearance. And betwixt three and four in the Afternoon the Trained Bands returned to the City, and drew up on both Sides of the Street; and at four the Right Honourable the Lord Provost, Magistrates and City Council, in their Robes, with the City's Sword and Mace carried before them, the Officers walking bare-headed, and Trumpeters and Hautboys playing before them, came from the Town-House, attended by his Excellency Lieutenant General Carpenter, with several Persons of Quality, the Officers of the Army, the Commissioners of the Customs, Excise, and Enquiry, with a great many Gentlemen, to a large Theatre erected near the Cross, where they drank His Majesty's Health, and happy Return to Britain, with the Healths of their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, Prince Frederick, and their Royal Nursery, and to the glorious and immortal Memory of King William, with several other Loyal Healths, the Castle firing a Round at the same Time, and the City Guard discharging a Volley of small Shot at each Health. After which they returned to the Town-House, in the same Order, where the foresaid Healths were repeated, and where they continued drinking several loyal Healths till seven at Night, the City Guard firing to each Health.

Betwixt four and five in the Afternoon, Colonel Edgerton's Regiment returned from the Castle-Hill through this City, (the General and other Officers reviewing them as they marched) to the Abbey of Holy-Rood-House, where there was a large Table covered near a great Bonfire, where (the General being present) the Healths of His Majesty, the Prince and Princess, and many other loyal Healths were drank. And at Night there were many Illuminations, ringing of Bells, and all other Demonstrations of Joy, through the whole City, without the least Disturbance.
